Field Marshall Report

Bill Losey updated the club on the prototype metal pilot safety fence that Ray and Buddy were having made. This was constructed by an Amish welding shop for a cost of $110 and includes anchor spikes designed to raise the fence four inches off the ground. The fence was installed replacing the worst of the old pilot stations.

Bill asked the club to grant approval to replace all the safety fences, but it was suggested that the club members needed a chance to evaluate the prototype before making a decision.
